KIDSEUM CELEBRATES 20 YEARS WITH A GRAND REOPENING ON DECEMBER 7, 2014

Santa Ana, Calif. — The Bowers Museum is proud to announce that it will celebrate Kidseum’s 20th anniversary with a whole new look and programming for the 21st century. Kidseum will be high-tech and interactive with a focus on it’s new mission, “Igniting imagination through exploration,” stressing the excitement of art and archeology.

A few of the many new areas to explore include the “Green Screen Time Machine,” where children and their families can travel to the world’s most historic sites on a Wells Fargo Stagecoach. Visitors to Kidseum will be able to experience the famous 45,000 year old Caves of Lascaux, France in a unique Glow Cave with special glow-in-the-dark projects. Smart Boards and Smart Tables have been installed for a variety of programs from storytelling to lessons about our diverse world cultures.

A richly equipped Archaeology lab will invite the visitor to explore the world of archaeology using the tools of an archaeologist in a royal Egyptian tomb. Everything at the new Kidseum is designed to excite not just the children, but the entire family with many activities for families to do together. A public celebration will take place on Sunday, December 7, 2014 with free admission to explore our world through artifacts, ancient monuments and legends our ancestors left behind.

BOWERS’ KIDSEUM, in Santa Ana, is open for school tours Tuesday through Friday, the after school program runs Monday through Friday and the pre-school adventures every Friday. The general public is invited to participate in the many Kidseum programs and activities every Friday through Sunday from 10 am to 4 pm. Admission is $6 per person, children under 2 are free. Special programs may have additional fees.

Extended hours are available during winter, spring and summer break. For more information, visit our website at www.bowers.org/kidseum
